President Trump declares national day of mourning for George HW Bush

On Wednesday, December 5, 2018 all executive offices and federal government agencies will close to pay homage to the memory of our 41st president.

In a statement issued by the White House, President Trump said; "It is with great sadness that we mark the passing of one of America's greatest points of light," Trump said in the statement ... "I invite the people of the world who share our grief to join us in this solemn observance," the statement said.

We honor President George HW Bush's unselfish dedication and humble service to our great nation.
